

Origins * Your place of birth was a town or small city, a fairly civilized place. You were raised by your birth parents, who were part of a major trade guild. All of them met with misfortune, a crippling addiction to drugs, alcohol, gambling, or something else.

Siblings You have the following siblings:

- A younger sister that still lives with your childhood caretakers.
- An adopted younger brother that suffered grave misfortune, taken by kidnappers, slavers, or raiders, and presumed lost or enslaved.
- A younger sister that is dead, killed in an accident.
- An older sister that is dead, murdered by someone. You know who did it.
- An older sister that hates you for some past transgression.

Appearance

- You favor clothing that blends with the local styles, changing at need. You have short, braided hair. You routinely wear body paints, makeup or other decorations that set you apart.

Important Events You have experienced the following important events:

- You became addicted to gambling.
- You suffered a major financial loss, losing almost everything.
- You made an enemy, people in positions of power, the authorities. They make you shouty-angry. They have military connections. Your rivalry grew into something stronger.
- Imprisoned for a crime I committed
- A serious relationship ended when your partner died, dying under mysterious circumstances.
- Imprisoned for a crime I didn't commit
- You made a friend, a teacher, religious advisor or mentor. They are part of a tribe or other small group and can call on other members in need.

— You were imprisoned for several months because of a crime you committed. [later] You were imprisoned for several months because of a crime you didn't commit.
